

DR. MARK RAZHEV

Department of Economics, University of Melbourne

FBE building, 111 Barry Street, 3053, Carlton, Victoria, Australia
email: mark.razhev@unimelb.edu.au

Current Position Lecturer, Department of Economics, University of Melbourne

Undergraduate Studies

Moscow State University, B.A. in Economics, 2004-2008

Graduate Studies

New Economic School (Moscow), M.A. in Economics, 2008-2010

Princeton University, 2010-2016

Ph.D. in Economics

Thesis Title: "Essays in International Trade"

Working Papers

Input-Output Structure and Trade Elasticity

Structural Change, Increasing Returns and the Growth of Trade

Optimal Trade Policy with Intermediate Goods

Work in Progress

Optimal Preferences: A Home Bias Example

Structural Change and Trade Growth under Variable Markups

Capital as Intermediate Input: Adjusting the Gains from Trade Calculation

Presentations

2016: New Faces in International Trade, Penn State. RBA Macroeconomics Workshop (Discussion), Sydney

2017: Australasian Trade Workshop, Brisbane. Asia Pacific Trade Seminars, Hanoi. Melbourne Trade Workshop, Conference on Global Production, Singapore.

2018: Australasian Trade Workshop, Auckland. Asia Pacific Trade Seminars, Hongkong. Melbourne Trade Workshop.

Teaching

Melbourne University, Instructor: Globalization and the World Economy, Conflict and Cooperation in World Trade

Princeton University, Teaching Assistant: International Trade, Introduction to Macroeconomics, International Economics, Macroeconomic Analysis, Economics of Food and Agriculture, Topics in Country and Regional Economics

University Service

2017-2018 Junior hiring committee

Citizenship

Russian Federation, Australia permanent resident